

Who We Are

Alaska Common Ground is a membership supported, non-profit, non-partisan, tax-deductible organization, that focuses on Alaska's public policy issues. Our mission is to collect and disseminate information about Alaskan issues and problems, facilitate discussion, and to develop public policy, knowledge, and understanding among Alaskans. We do this through forums, reports, group dialogue, and media.

There is great strength when people come together to talk and listen to each other. We facilitate dialogue to develop areas of agreement and promote positive relationships among all segments of our society.

We strive to build understanding in order to work toward building a consensus among people who hold diverse points of view while respecting differences in opinion. Through this process, we can engage more Alaskans in the process of making better decisions for Alaska.
