

Hannah Laird

Hannah is a lifelong Alaskan who is passionate about Alaska Common Ground's work to cultivate mutual understanding on important Alaska policy issues.

Hannah's professional background includes work in the public, private and nonprofit sectors. Formerly she worked in Constituent Services for the Office of U.S. Senator Lisa Murkowski. After changing professional directions, Hannah is now an Account Manager at local advertising agency, Spawn Ideas.

Hannah ultimately joined the ACG board because she cares deeply about her community and the issues that face it. She understands that access to information, reaching across differences and compromise all lead to a stronger Alaska.

In her free time Hannah enjoys playing hockey, skiing, yoga, softball, the arts and spending time with her amazing family and friends.
